"The Church by the Mall with the Ball in the Wall" is a contemporary reference to Saint Paul's Episcopal Church, situated adjacent to the relatively new MacArthur Mall parking garage. Elizabeth River Parish was established in 1637 and included the current structure of Saint Paul's Church, formerly Borough Church, built in 1739. Embedded in its southeastern wall (and marked by the DAR), is a cannonball fired by Lord Dunmore's Royal Navy. From the early 1600s to 1827, the property served as Norfolk's public burying ground, historically known as the "Old Churchyard." About the year 2000, a reporter who visited the church and its surrounding yard referred to it as a "piece of living history... the only remaining structure that connects the city [of Norfolk] with its colonial past." That past, of course, refers to the relevant "Burning of Norfolk" as a result of Dunmore's defeat at Great Bridge and the lack of provisions from Col. Woodford, which radically altered Dunmore's eye on Norfolk as a potential base of British operations.
